Gavel changes hands at Annual Meeting

Gerald Berger assumes leadership

By Cynthia Engel

The 51st Annual General Meeting of the Jewish Community Council of Ottawa — Ottawa Vaad Ha'Ir, held on Wednesday, June 12, saw Gerald A. Berger elected president for the 1985-87 term. He succeeds retiring President Dr. N. Harvey Lithwick.

Convened at 6:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of the Jewish Community Campus, 881 Broadview Avenue, the meeting was attended by some 300 people and was presided over by outgoing President Lithwick.

Originally conceived as a forum at which each communal organization presented a report of the past year's activities and events, the duration of the Annual Meeting has been considerably shortened by the publication of a Special Edition of the Ottawa Jewish Bulletin & Review containing the information in printed form. A copy of this year's issue, dated June 6, 1985 was provided for the perusal of all those present.

Singled Out

In his overview of the reports, Dr. Lithwick made special mention of the newly-formed Canada-Israel Committee/Community Relations Committee which is co-chaired by Stephen Victor and Mrs. Barbara Farber. This committee, he noted, made a point of informing all three party candidates in the recent federal election of Jewish concerns.

He also singled out UJA

General Campaign Chairman Dr. Stanley Labow, and Women's Division Co-Chairmen Linda Cogan and Cally Kardash, for commendation on the 1985 campaign which has realized its goal of $3. million, with the Women's Division exceeding its set goal. At the same time, he announced the appointment of Larry Hartman as General Chairman of the 1986 Campaign, and Sheila Hartman and Myra Presser as Co-Chairmen of the Women's Division for the upcoming year.

Dr. Lithwick congratulated the Jewish Community Foundation on reaching its Bar Mitzvah year, and made special mention of the tremendous expansion being undertaken by the Jewish Community Centre under the aegis of Board Chairman A.J. Freiman and the J.C.C. staff.

Presentation of Award

The portion of the evening set aside for the presentation of the Gilbert Greenberg Distinguished Service Award, given posthumously to the late Executive Vice President of the Jewish Community Council, Hy Hochberg, brought a mixture of pride and sadness to the gathering.

In making the presentation to Mrs. Pauline Hochberg, Selection Committee Chairman Joseph Lief said, "Hy was a true professional, a man who devoted his whole adult life — and I mean his whole adult life — to this community.

"His good deeds are all around us, where we can see them and enjoy them."

In his remarks on behalf of the Greenberg family, Alan Greenberg noted that only four years ago the Gilbert Greenberg Award was unveiled for presentation to the first honoree, Lawrence Freiman. On that evening, he recalled, Hy Hochberg and his mother, Bess Greenberg, both of whom have since passed on, were standing on either side of the plaque.

"Hy Hochberg's dedication to this community," Mr. Greenberg said, "will be the standard to which all future generations will look up."

Accepting the award on behalf of her late husband, Mrs. Hochberg said, "For Hy the last 39 years were spent simply doing something he felt he had to do. It was a labour of love, and rewards and honours were really the furthest things from his mind." The complete text of her address can be found on page two of this issue.

Earlier this year, Mr. Hochberg was posthumously awarded the Samuel Bronfman Medal, a Canadian Jewish Congress award reserved for outstanding service on behalf of Canadian Jewry.

Further Tribute

As a further tribute to the enormous contribution made to the Ottawa Jewish Community by the late Executive Vice President, the Vaad executive has established the Hy Hochberg Community Lecture Fund, the proceeds of which will fund an annual lecture by a great scholar in matters of Jewish importance. In addition, the chapel in the Broadview Campus is to be dedicated in Hy Hochberg's memory.

The chairman presented gifts from the community to three members of the staff of the Embassy of Israel who are leaving to take up other postings. Yitzhak Shelef, Minister Counsellor, with his family is returning to Israel after a four year stay in this city. Avi Granot, Press and Information Attaché, will take up duties with the Embassy in Rome, following two years spent in Ottawa. And David Sagiv, Second Secretary, returns to Israel after two years with the Embassy here.

In his last official duty as President of the Vaad, Dr. Lithwick paid tribute to Hy Hochberg, and to the staff who kept the community running after his death, in particular Jerry Solomon, Howard Goldberg and Rossie Rose.

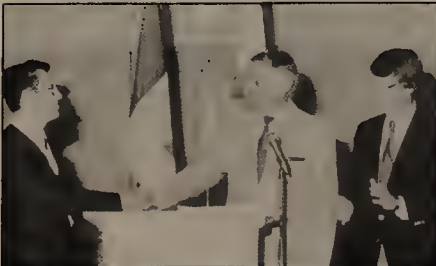

He credited his parents with fostering his interest in community affairs.

"From them I came to appreciate that we had something here of inestimable value," Dr. Lithwick said. "But something which many communities are unable to sustain beyond the second generation. Fortunately, their generation was determined not to let this treasure escape. They built not only institutions but attitudes that shaped the values of their children and grandchildren."

In accordance with a precedent established last year at the 50th Annual Meeting, Dr. Lithwick was inducted into the Fellowship of Past Presidents. His medallion, suspended on a ribbon, was presented by Past President Sol Shinder.

Incoming president Gerald Berger presented Mrs. Yvonne Lithwick with a dozen roses in appreciation of her patience and understanding over the past two years.

Following Dr. Lithwick's address, the newly elected President Gerald Berger assumed the chair. In his address he recalled his early years in Ottawa and the people who were instrumental in shaping his interest in community affairs. Excerpts from his inaugural speech can be found on page two of this issue.

Officers who will serve with Mr. Berger this year are: Stephen Victor, Q.C., First Vice President; Dr. Eli Rabin, Second Vice President; Mrs. Simone Goldberg, Treasurer; and Lorry Greenberg, Honorary Secretary.

The 10 new Trustees-at-Large are: Dr. Norman Barwin, Dr. Bernard Dolansky, Mrs. Carole Greenberg, Mrs. Judy Kalin, Jacie Levinson, Mrs. Dorothy Nadolny, Phil Pinkus, Mrs. Zelaine Shinder, Moishe Smith and Mrs. Rose Taylor.

The meeting was adjourned at 7:30 p.m. A barbecue dinner followed.

Vaad Report

by Gerald Berger

President, Ottawa Vaad Ha'Ir
Jewish Community Council

Excerpts from the inaugural address delivered at the 51st Annual General Meeting held at the Jewish Community Campus, June 12, 1985.

First Priority: To Foster Continued Developments

The two people with whom I have been most involved in Jewish communal affairs in Ottawa sadly are no longer with us. The first — Ann Altman — did not live long enough to work with me when I was Chairman of the Public Service Division of the United Jewish Appeal in 1975. The other, of course, is the late Hy Hochberg, of blessed memory, who was one of those most responsible for involving me in Jewish community affairs, who introduced me to a young lady named Ruth Cohen, and with whom many of us worked so closely over the years. I know that over the next two years I will frequently ask myself when faced with a problem: What would Hy have advised?

LOOKING BACK

The year that concludes with this evening has been an exciting and important one for Ottawa:

- it saw the moving and important Gathering of Holocaust Survivors
- the celebrations commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Vaad
- the commencement of the Human Rights Conference and the daily demonstrations taking place at the Conference Centre and the Soviet Embassy in support of Soviet Jewry
- the approval by the Trustees of the Vaad of important policies relating to the Talmud Torah Board and Teens
- the official opening of the outdoor facilities at this Campus, permitting the JCC to take fuller advantage of the Community facilities which are developing here
- the celebration of the Bar Mitzvah Year of the Ottawa Jewish Community Foundation
- and a U.J.A. Campaign which promises to reach its goal of $3 million

A UNIQUE COMMUNITY

I have heard, as I am sure you have, a number of speeches by incoming Presidents in which they talk of the uniqueness of the Ottawa community. I regret to inform you that I will be no different. I arrived in Ottawa 24 years ago to begin work in the Department of Trade and Commerce. The community was smaller then and did not have as many of the institutions as we have today. On the other hand, because it was smaller, there was an informal organization net which resulted in telephone calls being made to the JCC and within a short period of time I was receiving mailings from 151 Chapel Street. For new public servants arriving in Ottawa from out of town in those years, the Public Service Division of the United Jewish Appeal, led by such people as Dave Golden, Bert Migicovsky, and Phil Stuchen was the main avenue through which we became involved in the Ottawa Jewish Community. For some it was and is their only contact. For others it was a beginning. For my part, I found that anyone who wanted to be involved in community affairs, could be. Perhaps one of the areas that I wish to place emphasis on is the means by which we can identify and mobilize the very talented resources that exist here in Ottawa in order to help this wonderful community flourish. I want to put strong emphasis on leadership training and leadership development. By investing our resources in this activity we can assure ourselves that the community in which our children, grandchildren and even our great grandchildren live will be a vibrant one.

My major preoccupation, put into its most positive terms, will be the ability of the Ottawa Jewish Community to fulfill its potential. While we may not have the population, the revenue base, the institutions, the bureaucracy and, to a certain extent, problems of a Montreal or a Toronto or a New York, we do have a community which is known and envied throughout the Continent. We have, for example, and this is not an extensive list — a community centre, a community day school, a group of community funded afternoon schools, a Foundation for Academic Exchanges, a community newspaper, a community calendar, community cemeteries, a social services agency, a free loan society, a Chevra Kadisha, a Vaad Hakashrut, a home for the aged, a group of youth and teen organizations, JSU Hillel, Tamir, community supported summer camps, a Bonds organization, a whole range of Zionist and B'nai B'rith and women's organizations such as Hadassah and Pioneer Women, as well as synagogues of all stripes — all working together under a strong and respected Vaad Ha'Ir. This is not to say that we do not have problems or tensions in our community, but as long as we approach these problems from a common base — what is best for the community? — how can this be accommodated within the community structure? — then our future is assured. I pledge to all of you that my first priority is to foster the continued developments of our community — its institutions and its Vaad structure of organization.

GOOD TRACK RECORD

I mentioned before our very successful United Jewish Appeal campaign which has just concluded under the strong leadership of Stan Labow, Cally Kardash and Linda Cogan. In addition to UJA, Bonds and the regular appeals, we can look to the campaign to buy and develop this complex, led by Norman Zagerman and Sol Shinder and the current "Operation Facelift" led by Bill Grossman, Herb Nadolny, Steve Victor, Evelyn Greenberg and Avi Iry. We obviously have a good track record when it comes to raising money.

ADVANCING OUR GOALS

And as important as raising money is, we must remember that it is after all, a means, a very important one, but still a means to an end. We have to emphasize even more what the money is to be used for in advancing our goals, for example:

- education
- the nurturing of our youth and young adults
- respect for, care and devotion to the senior citizens of our community
- strengthening the links and mutual support between ourselves and Israel and
- concern and action in support of the rights and well-being of Jews everywhere

I want to say that I am honoured that the Community has the confidence in me to make me its President. The next several years will be difficult ones and I will be calling on a number of you for help and advice and counsel, in particular the past presidents, and, on my wife and my children for their understanding and support. I would also like to pay tribute to the staff who always work hard but have done so particularly over the last most difficult year. The success of myself and my colleagues will depend in large measure on the continued professionalism of this dedicated group of people.

Acceptance of the Gilbert Greenberg Distinguished Service Award by Mrs. Pauline Hochberg

This is a time of great emotion for me and my family, so please bear with me.

It is with great pride and great sorrow that I am here this evening. The pride stems from the fact that you are awarding this magnificent honour to my late husband, Hy Hochberg.

My sorrow is of course that he is no longer with us to be able to accept this himself.

Hy would have been absolutely thrilled and a bit embarrassed to know that the Ottawa Jewish Community thought so highly of his work, that they would bestow this honour on him.

The Gilbert Greenberg Distinguished Service Award is particularly significant and meaningful to me, because Hy and Gilbert's friendship went back to boyhood. It is hard to believe that they are both not with us anymore. Hy loved Gilbert not only as a friend, but as a brother, and honoured Gilbert just as you tonight, have honoured Hy in Gilbert's name. He also felt close to Bess, Gilbert's children, and the whole Greenberg family.

If Gilbert was here tonight, he too would be saddened by the loss of his good friend Hy, as they worked closely together for two years, when Gilbert was President of the Jewish Community Council. In fact, Hy was always grateful for the fact that Gilbert initiated the Hy and Pauline Hochberg Endowment Fund.

For Hy, the last 39 years were spent simply doing something he felt he had to do. It was a labour of love, and rewards and honours were really the furthest things from his mind. His goal simply was to establish and nurture a strong Jewish Community in Ottawa and around the world. He was a child of his times, and he felt that all Jews had to give selflessly to one another, and only by doing this, could a strong Jewish Community develop. And so for 39 years he worked day and night, week-day and weekend to fulfill this goal for his people and himself.

To Hy, this was his duty. Gifted as he was with common sense and an uncanny ability to mediate, to console, and to bring opposing points of view to a happy consensus, in his mind, there really was no other job in life that he could fulfill.

Therefore, Hy would have felt it somewhat ironic that he would be honoured merely for doing his duty. The Gilbert Greenberg Distinguished Service Award would have said to Hy, as it does to me, that he performed his duty well. And if he were alive today, his heart would be over-flowing with joy, and most of all, pride of his community, for by bestowing this award his community demonstrates the warmth, intelligence, and emotion that he knew was there, and that he worked so hard to safeguard.

Hy would have said that it is the Jewish Community itself, through their good works and caring attitudes and humanity, that deserves this prestigious award, and he would accept it proudly on their behalf.

Therefore, I would like to thank you on behalf of Hy, myself, my family, and the Ottawa Jewish Community for this honour you have given to Hy's life-long labour.

Commentary

Although this is not our official year end (the Yom Tov issue heralds the start of our fiscal year) it is a time when the Bulletin thankfully slows down to just one issue per month, and for yours truly it is a long-anticipated, much appreciated break. It has been a difficult and challenging year for all of us here at 151 Chapel. The loss of Hy Hochberg and the months leading up to his passing were, to say the least, trying. However, reflecting on the months since his untimely end, we have, all of us I think, managed to hold the fort rather well. This is in no small measure due to our teacher, for Hy in his wisdom made certain that everyone of us knew our jobs, and knew them well. He has bequeathed to his successor a well-oiled and smooth-running ship of which he would be justifiably proud.

As I am wont to do in the good ole summertime, I am going to give myself a break from authoring this column. Nonetheless, I will be responsible for putting together the two issues — July 26 (deadline Wednesday, July 10) and August 23 (deadline Wednesday, August 7) for your reading pleasure. Please, please, please, if you plan to take advantage of the opportunity to wish loved ones and friends a Happy New Year in the Bulletin, don't leave the filling out of the form until the last minute. Of all the Bulletins I paste together over the year, that particular issue is the most frustrating, usually because someone remembers at zero hour that they meant to have their greeting included...and forgot. The form-to-be filled out is in this issue, so please, don't wait for spring...do it now!

If you were among the seven hundred people who packed the auditorium of the Jewish Community Centre last Sunday, June 23, you know what a roaring success The Music of Our Life Concert was. To have been a participant in it was a privilege, and the audience's reaction to the program was overwhelming. Bouquets to organizers Evelyn Greenberg and Mark Max for a job well done. Perhaps this can become an annual community event...which, judging from the size of the crowd, would have to be held in larger quarters next year!

Keep your fingers crossed for at least a few days of decent weather.

A happy and healthy summer to all!

Superwalkers sweeten UJA pot with $50,129.

Roz and Sam Gershon, co-chairmen of Super Walk '85 have expressed their satisfaction at the results achieved in the annual U.J.A. Walkathon held on Sunday, June 2. To date, the Walk has produced $50,129.00 which will help the 1985 U.J.A. Campaign reach its $3 million goal.

Once again, the Community, through its generous donors, and devoted walkers, joggers, and bikers, has seen a profitable conclusion to its major annual fund-raising event.

Highly visible in their "Community of Chai Walkers" T-shirts, this group was led once again by Nat Palmer, who singly raised $21,287.00.

Newcomers to this prestigious group included Sam Petigorsky who raised $2,300.00; John Tavel, the Vered Brothers, and David Blumenthal, who all raised over $1,000.00 each.

Upon the participants' return to the Campus grounds, the fun began with refreshments, carnival rides, pony rides, and children getting their faces painted as everyone awaited the official opening of the new swimming pool.

A special word of thanks is extended to the many volunteers who are always available to help ensure the success of our Community's events.

Coat of Many Colours

by Israel Shenker

Doubleday, 395 pages, $26.95

The Biblical coat of many colours caused contention among Joseph's brothers, contention that miraculously resulted in good fortune for the coat's owner and his jealous siblings. This symbol well suits the title of Israel Shenker's eclectic gleanings, pages from Jewish life. Shenker, an experienced journalist (20 years European correspondent for Time; 10 years reporter for The New York Times), has uncovered a rich polygot of people and place, enhanced by anecdote and quotation.

Exploring the gamut from the theological to the secular, Shenker confronts Judaism's perennial definitions, religion, tradition, ideology and culture. From the notion of the Jewish people as singular condition, and God as singular condition, Shenker deliberately establishes a tongue in cheek, disputatious tone throughout the book. Still, his massive pride in his Jewishness is always evident, as is his insatiable curiosity about creator ceases to have a mystical foundation and becomes strictly an office job...one party on one side, one on the other, and they haggle over terms."

Shenker is particularly sharp in his explanation of the Jews' verbal as opposed to visual representation of reality in their early written literature, the Old Testament as prime example. It took Jewish writers millennia to separate themselves from their religious roots. Some still struggled. Saul Bellow's Sam Morgenstern says, "All Jewish writers dance at the edge of a precipice, it's originally impossible for a Jew to be a pessimist, a Jew is a believer." Certainly, historian, Salo Baron, agrees as he acknowledges "Messianism as Judaism's most profoundly original idea." But Shenker comes in quick with Gershon Sholem's corollary to the concept of Jewish Messianism. "It diminishes the singular worth of the individual and he can never fulfill himself, because the incompleteness of his endeavors eliminates precisely what constitutes its highest value."

The Jewish writer belongs to a noble tradition but initially writing among Jews was the domain of rabbinic sages, particularly the creators of the Talmud, the official written commentary on the Old Testament. Shenker is happy to remind readers of the continuing rabbinic responses concerning Talmud. In this century, Israel's Adin Steinsaltz, "a gentle soft-spoken rabbi who has earned acceptance among both believers and non-believers for his humour and tolerance," is compiling a new edition of the Talmud. In the margins of his work are references to history, philosophy, archeology and botany. For each chapter and tractate (chapters dealing with one subject), Steinsaltz has written an introductory preface.

Shenker takes his readers on several Jewish tours. In Israel he visits the unusual Diaspora museum, Beit Hatefutsot, with its thematic exhibits,

"Family," "Community," and "Faith," the cornerstones of Jewish civilization. In New York he savours the reestablishment of Vilna's YIVO Institute founded in 1925 to document European Jewish history. The Nazis seized the library and archives but fortunately all was recovered and sent to New York in 1940.

Shenker's circus of people and place would not be complete without a tour of Brooklyn where many of the world's Hasidim now live. He singles out two sects, vastly removed from each other in ideology, the Lubavitchers who hail from White Russia and the Satmars from Rumania. Both are popular pietists but the former are friendly missionaries to their fellow Jews while the latter are exclusivists who are often hostile. A visitor to the Satmar community's European style parochial school where rote learning and strict discipline are preserved, asked the rabbi, "Is corporal punishment allowed?" He replied simply, "Why not?"

The Satmar rabbi was not only serious but confident about the importance of discipline albeit forcefully imposed. Israel Shenker seems far removed from the Satmar until one looks at his mammoth investigation, showing perseverance and patience. However, the discipline Shenker imposed on himself was motivated by love and pride of all his people. This nook and cranny book was produced out of sheer desire.

Where have all the children gone?

Rabbi Gershon Sonnenschein
Congregation Beth Shalom West

By the time this article appears, many of the children will have been sent off to camp. Duffle bags, suitcases etc. have been packed and now for the next 6-8 weeks, the children will be in a totally different environment from that of the school year. The summer camp experience is probably one of the most significant in the young person's life and his own identity, and it is no wonder that many people regardless of the skyrocketing fees send their children to summer camp.

Choosing the proper summer camp is probably a more arduous task than choosing the proper school. The reason being is that at least in a school environment you entrust your children for a period of eight hours a day for intellectual growth. Whereas in a summer camp you entrust your child body and soul for seven days a week, twenty four hours a day for a period of seven weeks. Therefore it is critical that a camp be chosen which would fulfill both the children's needs as well as the lifestyle that you wish them to develop. If the child has been receiving a day school education, the question becomes should the summer be a break from Jewish education, I believe not. The summer months should complement the year's work on an informal level. If the child did not receive any formal Jewish education, then it is probably even more important that the child receive some form of Jewish education. It is also imperative that the environment in camp be with other children of similar backgrounds and interests. Are the counsellors and supervisory staff proper Jewish role models? These are but a few critical issues when deciding on a camp.

So what should we be looking for?

1. What kind of formal Jewish educational demands are made on the campers? Besides whatever formal Jewish education the child may be able to receive in the camp, the question must be raised as to informal Jewish educational experiences which the camp must provide. Is there someone on staff who is in charge of programming — a specialist in Judaic content. If so, what is the program? Is it sophisticated enough for your child's needs? Or is it superficial?

2. Another issue is the level of kashruth observance in the camp. Is it the kind of kashruth observance that you want your child to have should he be at home? Is there a mashgiach (a kashruth supervisor) or someone in charge of verifying that kashruth standards are maintained? For many camps may advertise to be kosher or kosher style when in fact they do not observe the dietary laws. It is worth the effort on the part of the parents to substantiate whether in fact the camp that they choose is in fact kosher.

3. Another important aspect is the Shabbat observance of the camp. Many times campers come back from their summer experience with a whole new outlook on Shabbat after spending a summer in a camp which gave Shabbat a sense of meaning and purpose. If that is what you want for your child then try to find out is the camp providing services, proper Shabbat meals, ruach, zmirot, oneg shabbats etc. There is nothing like spending Shabbat in camp when it is properly done.

4. The next question that must be addressed is what are the daily rituals of the camp. Are there prayers said in the morning? Even though in some camps they may be abridged, nevertheless, a daily ritual of prayers should be observed and maintained. What about a Hebrew speaking camp? Do you want your child to maintain the level of Hebrew that he speaks during the year in school? What about at meals? Are there prayers said before the eating of the bread? Do they say the birkat hamazon after the meal?

Too many people reading this column may say "Isn't it enough that my child spends a whole year studying and learning about his heritage, learning about his people, in school, in the synagogue. Let them enjoy the summer! For two months leave them alone from the pressures, let them relax and have an enjoyable summer." To this question, to these concerns, I maintain, that many people don't realize how much can be learned in one summer, how important the summer experience can affect the child during the course of the year and perhaps for a lifetime. Therefore, it is important that parents take into consideration the value of what two months in the summer can do, in an environment totally free of pressure, totally devoid of schoolwork. If parents are sending their children to a camp which is on a higher level of observance than that they normally have at home, then they should expect that when their children do come home from the summer that certain things will be asked by the child. Be prepared and patient!

Library planning 'Mommy and me'

The Jewish Youth Library of Ottawa is planning a 'Mommy and Me' program. This project is offering two classes a week to mothers, in addition to activities for their toddler-age children simultaneously.

The classes will take place on Monday and Wednesday mornings, from 9:30-11:30 a.m. The first class will start on July 8 and will continue for six consecutive weeks.

This program was planned to give mothers an opportunity to continue (or start) their learning in Jewish studies — without worrying where to put their children who are not yet of summer camp age. While offering a quality learning and studying program for mothers, the children have not been left out. An extensive program with arts and crafts — in addition to tradition-filled fun has been planned.

Rachel Diena, an experienced educator and mother, will be teaching 'Living With the Times'. It will deal with the Torah parsha (portion) of the week. Mrs. Diena will use commentaries and relate how the parsha affects our families and our day-to-day living.

Chana Hayes, an experienced teacher and mother, will be giving a class on 'Parenting — the Jewish Way'. She will be dealing with different methods of raising and educating children. This course will provide insights into how mothers relate to families both as individuals and as mothers.

Maria Scontos is a teacher, artist and mother. She has extensive experience with young children and will be leading the toddler program. It will include special arts and crafts projects, games, and other outside activities. A nutritious snack will be served.

'Mommy and Me' will take place at The Jewish Youth Library of Ottawa — 185 Switzer Avenue. The charge is $60.00 for the six week session. Women without children are also welcome to attend. The program is limited to ten participants. For more information call Devora Caytak at 729-9256.

Errata

It has come to the attention of the Steering Committee of the Canadian Gathering of Holocaust Survivors that we inadvertently omitted to thank Cantor David Aptowitz and the Agudath Israel Choir for their memorable participation in the opening ceremony on Parliament Hill.

Our thanks goes out to: Perla Abtan, Janet Agulnik, Marsha Black, Gary Dubinsky, Shirley Dubinsky, Cindy Engel, Beverly Gershkovitch, Gloria Goldberg, Judith Goldberg, Saul Goldfarb, Gustave Goldman, Martin Gordon, Edie Landau, Leon Leckie, Ethel Malek, Mark Max, Jack Mintz, Rachel Paley, Edga Saslove, Eve Shulman, Gordon Spergel, Anne Steinberg, Elliott Steinberg and Shirley Weiner.

We also wish to thank Shirley Berman and the Ottawa Jewish Historical Society for the Exhibit in tribute to Scandinavia which was displayed at the Gathering.

Side Dishes

"Not peas and rice again?????"

Familiar refrain? One of the toughest menu ideas in my house is what to serve with the main course. Asparagus and cauliflower aren't real big movers. How many times can you serve peas and beans? Even dinner parties become boring with the same recycled ideas. Try these...

Tomatoes Stuffed with Purée of Green Peas

8 medium tomatoes salt and pepper
2 cups frozen green peas 1 t. sugar
margarine

Cut the top off each tomato. Scoop out the pulp and seeds. Dust lightly with salt and pepper and drain on paper towels for 20 minutes. Cook peas according to package. Add sugar and purée in processor. Spoon peas into tomato cups and place in flat casserole. Top with margarine. Refrigerate until ready to bake. Bring to room temperature. Bake at 350 for 30 minutes.

Broccoli Corn Casserole

16 oz. can creamed corn
10 oz. chopped broccoli cooked and drained
1 beaten egg
1/2 cup soda crackers crushed
1 T. onion
2 T. margarine
salt and pepper

Topping
1/4 cup crackers (crushed) and 1 T. margarine melted
Mix all ingredients and place in greased casserole. Top with additional crackers and margarine. Bake for 35 min. at 350.

Vegetable Strudel

2 t. oil sesame seeds
2 chopped onions 1/2 t. salt
1/4 cup sliced mushrooms 1/8 t. pepper
2 tomatoes cut up garlic powder
1 package chopped spinach 1 T. chopped parsley
1/2 cup bread crumbs

Heat oil. Sauté onions, mushrooms, spinach, tomatoes and seasonings. (around 10 minutes). Cool. Roll out a large oblong piece of puff pastry dough. Brush with oil. Sprinkle bread crumbs on top. Fill with vegetable mixture and roll up. Brush with oil and sprinkle with sesame seeds. Place on cookie sheet seam side down. Bake at 425 for 35 minutes. Freezes well raw. (filling makes enough for two rolls).

I'm going to take a little break from cooking. See you in August, and have a nice summer.

Talmud Torah Board to offer Judaic Studies at Nepean High

In the fall of 1985, a unique Hebrew and Judaic Studies High School program will open under the auspices of the Ottawa Talmud Torah Board and with the support of the Ottawa Board of Education. The program represents a new venture in public and private school co-operation.

The courses will all take place at Nepean High School. Students registered in the program can select their general studies courses from the entire range of Nepean's offerings. In addition, before and after Nepean school hours (9 a.m.-3:05 p.m.), students will attend classes in Hebrew and Judaic Studies for a total of eight hours a week. These classes will be held at Nepean High School itself. Supervision of the Hebrew and Judaic Studies portion of the program will be under Stan Katz, Director of Education for the Ottawa Talmud Torah Board.

Ontario credit

The Hebrew Language will be given Ontario credit, so that each year the students will earn a full credit beyond what they gain from their general studies. The Hebrew curriculum is based on a similar credit program in Toronto high schools with the possibility of considerable enrichment for students who are able.

Variety of subjects

As to Judaic Studies, the students will study a variety of subjects, including Jewish History, Gemara, Bible Studies, and Jewish issues. A distinctive feature of this program is that the classes will be learner-centered: students will be encouraged to discuss, debate, probe, think critically, and present their own ideas.

The program was developed by a number of families whose children are currently graduating or have recently graduated from Hillel Academy. Both parents and children felt strongly the need for further Jewish education, especially because, as one student put it: "it's only as you get older that you realize how interesting these subjects can be."

Co-operative venture

The high school is conceived as a co-operative venture: parents, students, and teachers sit together on the curriculum committee in order to define a program that is serious, stimulating, and challenging.

Organizers of the program have been delighted by the support and co-operation of the local boards as well as the Ontario Ministry of Education. Representatives of the Ottawa Board of Education and particularly Mr. Hall, principal of Nepean High School, have welcomed the program and been very generous in the support they have offered in its establishment on OBE premises.

The Carleton Board of Education has agreed, on a trial basis, to pay the cross-boundary fees of any CBE students who attend Nepean for the purpose of participating in the Hebrew and Judaic Studies program. In addition, representatives of the Ministry of Education have been very helpful in facilitating the procedures for providing credit for the Hebrew studies.

Katz instrumental

"All this co-operation," one organizer explained, "is directly due to the guidance and support provided by Stan Katz, the Director of Education for the OTTB. The very fact of Mr. Katz's association with the program opened many bureaucratic doors for us."

The program is intended for day school graduates or for students with equivalent background. Anyone interested in further information can contact Judy Kalin (523-9097), Aviva Freedman (521-8216) or Carole Starkman (829-4490).

Cantors Motzin, Levinson and Bagley in performance at the OTTB Yom Yerushalayim Concert.

Cantorial trio well received by audience

The Second Annual Concert honoring Yom Yerushalayim took place recently at Congregation Machzikei Hadas. Chazans Bagley of Toronto, Motzin of Montreal and Levinson of Ottawa drew a crowd of over three hundred people. Ottawa Torah Institute is a local high school providing a full program of Judaic and secular subjects. The concert is the main community event of the year for the high school and helps raise much needed funds.

During the evening, gifts of recognition were awarded to Cantor David Aptowitzer and Blanche Osterer for their outstanding efforts on behalf of the Torah High School.

Diabetes may soon be fought to a draw Israeli physician says

Diabetes can't be beaten, but a visiting Israeli physician says doctors may soon be able to fight it to a draw.

So says Dr. Hanoeh Bar-On, head of the diabetes unit at the Hebrew University-Hadassah medical centre in Jerusalem.

Bar-On is spending this year doing research with Dr. George Steiner, head of endocrinology at the Toronto General Hospital.

A world renowned specialist on diabetes, he feels that the daily regimen of insulin injections faced by millions of diabetics may soon be unnecessary.

In a major research effort, his team at the Hebrew University-Hadassah Medical Centre has successfully administered insulin in suppository form.

His discovery has important implications. Fifteen to 20 per cent of diabetics need a daily injection of insulin. Some sufferers inject themselves; others need a nurse or a member of their household to do the injections for them.

Previous attempts at introducing insulin through the large intestine failed because insulin molecules are too large. "To overcome this problem we give insulin through the large intestine together with bile salts. The bile salts, which are natural detergents, promote absorption through the intestinal wall," said Bar-On, who received a citation for bravery under fire as a battlefield doctor in the Six Day War.

But he cautioned that non-injected insulin administration is not just around the corner.

"This procedure is still experimental — it hasn't been approved yet for human beings," he said, noting that obtaining approval for a new treatment can take several years.

He added that diabetes' side-effects — blindness, heart attack, stroke, kidney failure and gangrene — which are due to a progressive deterioration in a diabetic's blood vessels, are much harder to treat.

Bar-On, who was awarded for the best scientific contribution to the Second Milan International Meeting On Diabetes, Nutrition and Arteriosclerosis, has shown that diabetic animals produce defective fat particles (lipids), which cause the walls of their blood vessels to narrow.

"Arteriosclerosis, the hardening of the inner lining of the arteries, which occurs more frequently in diabetics than in other people, is a result of this process," he said.

In an effort to provide better treatment for diabetics in Jerusalem, Bar-On is seeking to establish a clinical and research center for the prevention of diabetes complications.

"In Jerusalem, there are between 5000 and 7000 diabetics. Some neglect their condition because of their lack of knowledge.

"The clinic will be located in the city, so that patients can be detected and referred to the Hebrew University-Hadassah hospital in Ein Kerem.

"Once we have detected the diabetes, we can begin treatment. And through our research, we hope to find better treatments in the future. An orally-administered insulin, and a specific drug to attack defective lipids, should be available in the future," he said.

Bar-On said the clinic has received the support of a number of North American philanthropists, including Burton Greenblatt of New Jersey and the Reichmann family of Toronto.

The Reichmann family recently made a substantial donation to the clinic research project.

Support for research projects in Israel is becoming increasingly important because the Israeli government has drastically cut its support for research efforts.

"This is why we have to go out of the country to search for funds," he said, adding that his field, diabetes, is particularly important.

"Diabetes is a very common disease. Anybody — children, adults, or the aged, can contract it, with devastating results.

"I'm confident that in the future, with enough research, we will be able to minimize its effects, he said, noting that his presence in Canada should be viewed simply as part of the longstanding co-operation between the Hebrew University and Canada's scientific community.

He said an example of this close co-operation was the 1972 decision to grant an honorary Hebrew University Doctorate to Dr. Charles C. Best, the co-discoverer of insulin.

OTI students exceed in math competition

Two 11th grade Ottawa Torah Institute High School students did extremely well in the Canadian Mathematics Competition sponsored by the Faculty of Mathematics, University of Waterloo.

The students, Zeev Dena, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Dena, and Rusty Samuels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Samuels both won the Certificate of Distinction and Merit, in the Fermat Division of the Computer.

In this contest, 12,282 of the top Canadian math students, representing 1,069 secondary schools, took the test. Zeev Dena fell into the top one percent of the official competitors. Both boys also took the Euclid Exam, which is geared to grade 12 students. Although the level was above their grade, the boys also did well on this exam.

The Yeshiva High School, Ottawa's only full day Jewish high school, takes pride in the scholastic achievement of these students and feel that this is indicative of the high level of study taking place at the school. Credit is due to 11th grade math teacher Roger Trudel, who, both helped and encouraged the boys in their preparation for the test.

The school is located at the Jewish Community Centre at 151 Chapel Street, and offers a full high school curriculum, fully accredited by the Ontario Ministry of Education. For further information contact either Rabbi Y. Morgenstern or Rabbi D. Tropper at 594-5658.

Omission

We apologize for omitting the names Leon Bronstein and Harry Goldstein, Camp Committee under the Camp Geshet/Habonim. Dror headline in the June 6 (Annual Reports) edition of the bulletin.

Resolution admitting women to B'nai B'rith Canada is passed

A resolution passed at B'nai B'rith Canada's recent Annual Convention ushered in a new era for Canada's senior Jewish service organization. On June 17, 1985, a change to its constitution was approved by more than two-thirds of the voting delegates. The doors of District 22, B'nai B'rith Canada, are now open to "any person" of the Jewish faith.

The decision to substitute "person" for "man" in its constitution spells a fundamental change to the organization. It also puts B'nai B'rith Canada in the vanguard of North American B'nai B'rith Districts and in line with B'nai B'rith in both Israel and many parts of Europe.

Within five minutes of the applause which greeted passage of the resolution, an announcement was made that Hilary Ingre had become the first woman to join B'nai B'rith Canada, sponsored by Delegate and Immediate Past President David Ingre. By the following morning, a number of other women had also joined, including Linda Smith, wife of Ottawa Lodge President, Jack Smith.

It was made clear at the Convention that B'nai B'rith Women of Canada, a Chapter of which operates in Ottawa, is a separate organization. Consequently, this historic change to B'nai B'rith Canada does not impose a change on B'nai B'rith Women of Canada. A member of B'nai B'rith Women would be free to exercise her option of joining B'nai B'rith Canada, regardless of whether or not she chooses to remain a member of B'nai B'rith Women. The same prerogative exists for any woman now a member of ORT, of Hadassah, or of any or no organization. The doors of B'nai B'rith Canada have been opened to any person of the Jewish faith, male or female, regardless of affiliation with any other group.

Many B'nai B'rith Lodges across Canada will now endeavour to attract capable and committed women to their ranks. Bytown Lodge, which has supported the admission of women to B'nai B'rith for well over a year, wishes to go on record as inviting applications from all interested members of the Jewish community.

Last September, Bytown sponsored a public discussion on admitting women to B'nai B'rith. One of the speakers at that meeting is now Bytown's first woman member. Bytown is a small Lodge, primarily engaged in community and volunteer services and in member programming. Its members entertain Hillel Lodge residents every two weeks; they run an annual car rally for Big Brothers and Big Sisters; and they participate regularly in the Jerry Lewis Telethon. Programs have included presentations by Lawrence Greenspan on Cruise missile testing, and by a Japanese-Canadian interned during the War. The Lodge has also been extremely active in the Ottawa-Carleton Committee of the League for Human Rights of B'nai B'rith Canada. Anyone who is Jewish and over eighteen, and ready to donate time and energy to good causes should consider joining.

Both men and women are invited to contact Stuart Leibovitch at 829-6645, David Ingre at 830-2631, or Allan Markowitz at 232-9555.

*A most rewarding experienceRetirees rave about Israel work/study program

By Janice Arnold

Only a little more than a month has passed since a group of seven Montreal "senior citizens" returned from a unique month work/study program in Israel for their age group, but already they are making plans to go on another next winter, they enjoyed it that much.

The women, all widows ranging in age from 59 to 75 were the only Canadians among 89 Americans, men and women, participating in a B'nai B'rith sponsored program, now in its second year called Active Retirees in Israel. Fifty participants this year were also sponsored by American Hadassah.

Historical event

What made this year's trip extra special was their opportunity to take part in a historical event — the rescue of the Ethiopian Jews.

The participants stayed in the Mediterranean resort town of Netanya where 400 Ethiopians were accommodated in a nearby hotel. Because of the covert nature of the rescue, the participants were not aware of the Ethiopians' being there until the news of Operation Moses broke worldwide. The North American retirees, whose ages ranged up into the 80s, became unexpectedly directly involved with helping these bewildered and often sick people adjust to their new surroundings.

Rewarding experience

Bea Jacobson, one of the Montrealers, describes the experience as one of the most rewarding of her life. "It was like opening the door on the 17th century... They didn't know what a bed was, or how to work a sink or the shower, or even how to use a hanger," Jacobson, 72, who owned and operated Camp Hiawatha in the Laurentians for many years, put to good use her no-nonsense organizational skills gaining the trust of the Ethiopians despite a language and cultural barrier.

Other Montrealers in the group were Ida Rosenthal, Dvora Alexander, Sophie Simcoe, Sybil Ornstein, Letta Katz and Norma Miller. During the inaugural 1983-84 season, only one Canadian, Jean Small, another Montrealer, participated, after reading about the program in a U.S. B'nai B'rith publication. She was so enthusiastic about the experience that she was determined an all-Canadian group should go this year.

Quickly recruited

She convinced the Golden Age Association and the Jewish National Fund to co-sponsor the venture. Unfortunately, publicity was late in getting started in October (the group left Dec. 10) but seven persons were quickly recruited, some making a last-minute change from their usual winter destination of Florida. A minimum of 20 persons would have been needed for the group to take part in the program as a separate Canadian entity.

Esther Goldstein director of the GAA's tour and travel department, said she has begun making inquiries about next winter's program in Israel and more information should be made available shortly. She says that since this year's participants returned, people have been coming constantly to her office wanting to sign up. They were all different people as well; one of the conditions of the program, organized in conjunction with the Jewish Agency, is that persons cannot take part two years in a row, unless it is a different sponsor.

Sponsorship does not mean any subsidization to the participants. The cost of this year's program was $3,224, based on double occupancy (single accommodation was available for an extra fee), plus airfare which was $1,099 Can. from Montreal. Included this year was accommodation in a comfortable, but not luxurious, hotel, three meals a day and 12 tours to different parts of the country.

Participants work

But this trip is not for those who want to put their feet up and take in the rays; participants are expected to do volunteer work five mornings a week and to study Hebrew in ulpan classes in the afternoons. Two days a week were spent pruning trees and clearing paths in JNF forests and on the other days there was a choice of volunteer work; among children and soldiers as English tutors, mending fences for the army, in the hospitals, with the blind and delinquent youth, and, though unscheduled, helping the Ethiopians. Many members of the group changed their first choice and pitched in to help sort the piles of clothes donated from Israel and throughout the world for the Ethiopians. Some, like Jacobson, later became more deeply involved, acting as a sort of ombudsman and jack-of-all-trades for the newcomers in the hotel they were put up in, were put up in.

New meaning to life

For Jacobson who had lost her husband two years before and had since taken little interest in any activity, the program, she says, gave new meaning to her life and it was with great regret that she left behind her work in Israel. "I feel there is still so much to be done," she said.

One of the other benefits of the program is the camaraderie and friendships that are forming. Jacobson, for example, has become friends with Norma Miller, the two lived across the street from each other but it took a trip to Israel to have them meet.

Miller, a former hospital x-ray technician who spent most of her life in Noranda, Que., and North Bay, Ont., tutored army officers in English and worked in the Lariado Hospital in the sterilizing department and assisting the over-burdened staff in checking on the Ethiopian patients.

She is now giving serious consideration to moving to Israel on her own for a year, if she cannot join this winter's retirees' program.

Incomparable visit

Both women agree that this stay in Israel cannot compare with their previous visits. "As a tourist, you are not involved with Israelis; you feel you are on the periphery," said Miller. "This program far exceeded my expectations."

Both women compare the program (favorably) to summer camp for children. "Something is planned for you every day," said Jacobson. In the evenings, there were lectures, films, folkdancing and other social and cultural activities. Frequently, they were hosted in the homes of Israelis by members of the Association of American and Canadians in Israel.

Only Fridays and Saturdays were free.

Despite the rigorous pace, the women returned to Montreal exhilarated physically and bursting with a sense of accomplishment. Right now Jacobson and Miller are acting as "ambassadors" for the retirees program, along with Jean Small who hopes to be on next winter's session.

Cindy Presser (No. 2) gave her best in the 400 metres.

Hillel kids compete in inter-school meet

Hillel Academy's first entry into the Ottawa Board of Education Elementary Track and Field Meet generated a lot of excitement among the participants. The meet, held at the Terry Fox Athletic Facility, on June 7, was attended by 900 students from 50 area schools. Hillel's entries did rather well for their year, most finishing 4th and 6th in their heats. Alan Azuelos put in an outstanding performance, finishing 3rd in his heat and seventh overall in the 1500 metres race. Participating in the meet were: Alan Azuelos (1500 m); Joey

Benedek (80 m); Tyson Bidner (400 m); Seth Boro (800 m); Louis Cohen (100 m); Natalie Eichler (long jump); Danny Friedman (long jump); Leslie Goldstein (80 m); Cindy Presser (400 m); Maya Rodal (100 m); David Sachs (200 m); Shelly Samel (800 m); Zev Williams (100 m). Special thanks to Warren Gross, Neev Tapiero, and Solly Reichstein who acted as assistant coaches and team managers. Appreciation is also extended to the parents of these athletes for their support. Walk Talk

Although the 1985 UJA Walkathon is now history, there were a number of memorable feats (feats?) that bear some recounting. Organizers Sam & Roz Gershon planned a perfect event, right down to sunshine and 72°F weather, and over 300 eager walkers, joggers, and bikers beat a path from the Broadview Campus to the Mill Restaurant and back.

Top money-maker — Nat Palmer (who else?) joined by other "Chai walkers" such as Stephen Victor, Sol Shinder, Stan Labow, and David Blumenthal. Also, the new "Vaad father", Gerry Berger, sprinted over the course.

Nice to see some of the "Heart Club" boys out, including Sam Peligorsky, who along with Izzie Rose, zipped around the 18 kilometre course with nary a kvetch.

Shoshana Edery, managed to complete the course on a borrowed bike despite numerous problems with a wheel and the chain. She was aided gallantly by Dr. Dale Fyman and Jonathan Abrams.

Youngest walker? 4-year-old Richie Sadinsky (no relation) who along with brother Teddy and sister Jody "went the distance".

Post event highlight? Seeing Eva and Izzie (Yippie) Kardish and sons Victor and Harvey serving hot dogs and soft drinks with numerous other Kardish family members, bringing back fond memories of the Kardish Deli of old, when Coke was Coke and smoked meat was smoked meat!

For the record

The Ottawa Jewish Men's Softball

League is now well into its season and while the early season results show that there will be few surprises when playoff time rolls around, nevertheless there have been a few individual efforts that should be recorded:

•Peter Brotman, father of "A" Division

twins Mark and Neil Brotman, slammed the first home run of his lengthy career, a grand-slammer against Ron Engineering.

•In the same game, Ronnie Vered made the play of the season, with an acrobatic catch of a Luu Honigman drive in the gap in centre field.

•gritty campaigner Bryan Glube broke open an 8-8 tie with a two-out clutch single to give "B" division hopefuls Pat Fleisher Furs a dramatic win over the "A" Division Hornets.

•little Al Cohen (the accountant not the wrecker) hit a line shot that just cleared the fence at Hampton Park for a round-tripper

•Morty White hit a mammoth home run at Hampton Park (some witnesses think the ball still has not landed)

•late flash Morris Schachnow drove a ball over the right field fence at Hampton Park showing Lefty's still got the power of old.

Shul League

What a thrill it would be to see a softball league made up from teams from the various local synagogues. Imagine some of the Halachic discussions that could take place over the religious meaning of a "ground-rule double" or proper rituals before coming to bat.

Perhaps we are moving closer to such a possibility, because every Sunday evening at 6:00 p.m. the folks out at Beth Shalom West get together at the Charing diamond to bang around the horse-hide. Maybe some other shuls will follow suit and the day may come when we take some of our most important matters from the pulpit onto the mound. For further details call Dr. Dale Fyman. That's it for now. See you in July.

ADVENTURE CAMP

Open to boys and girls aged 13-15, adventure camp offers a week long camping experience designed to develop skills in canoeing, kayaking and other outdoor skills. The camp is run by professionals from Trailhead. Duration is August 19-23rd.

Jewish Singles Summer Scene

Now that summer is upon us, finally, (and will be gone again in 6 weeks) we have crowded our calendar with suggestions for summer fun. Make the most of the fleeting days of summer. Come out and participate.

Canoe Trip on Indian River — Friday, July 12

— Sunday, July 14

Put some adventure into your summer! Join us for an exciting weekend in the wilderness. Voyage down the Indian River from Stony Lake to Rice Lake. See the "Serpent Mounds" ancient Indian worship grounds, explore caves and share the tranquility of a leisurely paddle through Ontario's most spectacular scenery. Then gather round a campfire for singing and camaraderie. The cost of the weekend is approximately $30.00. Call Allan at 236-1647 for details on this exciting trip.

Montreal Baseball, Expos vs Astros, Sunday, July 21

We have tickets to see the Expos play the Houston Astros and plans to meet with Montreal's Club 26-40 Singles Group. So don't miss out on this one! Tickets are limited. Call Shayna at 234-4656 for details and to purchase tickets. If you can offer car transportation, your passengers will pay for gas. Reserve your spot now.

Hike in the Gatineau, July 28, 9:00 a.m.

J.C.C. Meeting point

Canada's magnificent wilderness is at our doorstep. Enjoy the tranquility and beauty of nature in our own Gatineau Hills. We will meet on the J.C.C. steps at 9:00 rain or shine. Our hiking expert suggests you wear hiking boots or good walking shoes, hats and insect repellent. Call Estelle at 232-7306, ext. 16 to register.

Video Night, Saturday, August 10

— 8:30, 2824C Sandlewood Dr.

Our video nights in the home of Dr. Maurice Bencheitrit feature a 6 foot screen, stereo sound, interesting conversation and, this month the movie, "The Last Starfighter". Drinks and munchies are also included in the admission price of $1.50.

To get there, park in Herongate Mall, take the stairs at the south west end of the lot to the townhouse complex and turn right — or call Maurice at 733-4105.

We are planning on starting a Video Club and putting together a schedule of films we all want to see. If you are interested in becoming a member or for more information call Estelle at 232-7306.

Pool Side Barbeque and Dance, Sunday, August 11
Circle this date and keep it open for our big wind-up to summer. We are busy planning a terrific fun-filled evening with a D.J., door (or pool gate) prizes, lots of food and lots of surprises. Watch your bulletin and newsletter for details.

Baseball, Every Wednesday, 6:30, Laurentian High School, Baseline & Clyde

The turnout has been great for our friendly baseball games and the play has been — interesting. Don't hesitate about coming out if your skills are not major league. However, if you want to be assured a spot on a team, be there by 6:45.

On "Brandy's Wednesdays" we plan on organizing loads of thirsty players after the game to join the group waiting for us at Brandy's Den. (see below)

Cocktails, Alternate Wednesdays, July 10, July 24, August 7, New Time 9:00, Brandy's 126 York

Our get-togethers at Brandy's Den will get into full swing a little later during the summer so that our baseball players will have time to finish off their game and come join us. There is no dress code at Brandy's so you can feel comfortable about showing up in jeans and sweats. Come out and make the circle larger at our table.

Games Night, Every Thursday 7:30 p.m.,

J.C.C. Library

There's always a friendly group of people clicking dice and shuffling cards in the J.C.C. Library Thursday night. Come out and join us for a game of backgammon, hridge, trivial pursuits or scrabble or bring your own game (and even your own rules) and see if you can stump the experts. Munchies are 50¢; the rest of the fun is free. Call David at 225-9744 for more information.

Is spreading anti-semitism

Black Muslim minister Louis Farrakhan is bringing his anti-semitism to new and larger audiences, according to a report made public recently by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

The League said that since his initial involvement in Jesse Jackson's presidential campaign, Farrakhan has appeared before friendly crowds on college campuses and in other public forums.

The report was presented at a session of the League's 72nd annual National Commission meeting at the Grand Hyatt Hotel, June 5-9, by Nathan Perlmutter, ADL's national director. It said that since the beginning of the year, speeches by the head of the Chicago based Nation of Islam have attracted crowds numbering 77,000 in Detroit on January 19; 7,000 at the Atlanta Civic Center on January 26; 7,500 at the Convention Hall Civic Center in Philadelphia on February 2; 1,000 at a church in Memphis on April 13.

Engagement

Gilboa-Maoz

Helen and Chaim Gilboa are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Tal to Shami, son of Lili and Shmuel Maoz of Kibbutz Ginegar, Israel. Wedding to take place August 20 in Israel.

Lillian Safran will be in the swim at Maccabiah July 15-25

By Estelle Melzer

Fourteen year old Lillian Safran is the latest addition to the Ottawa contingent of Canada's team heading for the 1985 Maccabiah to take place in Israel July 15-25. Lillian qualified as one of the two girls on the Junior Maccabiah swim team.

For Lillian, the thrill of representing Canada at Israel's international games is the culmination of many years of commitment, high hopes and most of all, hard work. She began swimming as soon as she could walk, joined the Nepean Swim Club at the age of six and began competing at eight.

Competitive swimming for Lillian means seven practise sessions a week (roughly 12 hours in the pool). She manages to balance this schedule with music lessons and the demands of Hillel Academy, from which she graduated this month. Next year will see Lillian at Confederation High School, "just across the parking lot from the Nepean Sportsplex pool", says her mother, Judith.

Lillian's strongest races are the medley and breaststroke, but she will probably be entered in a wide variety of events in Israel. In the 1985 Can Am Maccabiah Youth Meet held recently in Montreal, she won firsts in the 50 metre breast stroke, the 200 metre individual medley and the 100 metre butterfly and also collected a number of seconds — the 200 metre freestyle, the 100 metre breaststroke and the 100 metre freestyle. In 1984 she qualified to compete in the "Youth Champs," the cross-Canada swim meet for youngsters 13 and under.

Cheering Lillian on in Israel, as they have throughout her swimming career, will be her parents, Tibor and Judith Safran of Ottawa, and her younger sister Alana, who is also an avid swimmer and a member of the Nepean Swim Club. There in spirit will also be her coaches, Duane Jones, Meegan Hughes and Claudia Cronin.

Jewish homosexual community stunned by onslaught of AIDS

By Ben Gallo

(JTA) — A growing number of deaths of members from AIDS has traumatized the Jewish gay community and has spurred efforts by members to provide counseling, solace and other helping services to victims and families of victims.

The report on the impact of AIDS appeared in the summer, 1985 issue of "Digest," the newsletter of the World Congress of Gay and Lesbian Jewish Organizations, with international headquarters in San Francisco.

The newsletter lists 23 affiliated groups, most of them organized as congregations. The vast majority have only a P.O. Box address. All but three are in American cities. One of the three, The Society for the Protection of Personal Rights, is in Tel Aviv.

Declaring that the tragedy of AIDS has become "all too familiar" in constituent groups, the report listed the deaths of eight members of Beth Simchat Torah in New York City and two deaths of members of Beth Chayim Chadashim of Los Angeles. This was clearly not a complete listing of deaths of Jewish gays and lesbians among the total of 9,000 cases "listed in the United States alone."

Members of Sha'ar Zahav in San Francisco became stunned and speechless when member Mark Feldman told a board meeting that he had AIDS. A former board member said this was "for us the start of a time of real terror and fear."

Before he died, Feldman started an intensive consciousness-raising campaign, a former board member said. He seemed "tireless at his efforts of educating the community" — presumably the homosexual community — "about health precautions, the need to lobby for research funding and the importance of creating a caring congregational community to support both the AIDS patients and the 'worried well,'" defined as Jews at risk for AIDS, for which no cure has yet been found.

The report said "the topic of AIDS surfaces at almost every gathering of member groups," from the one in Tel Aviv to the one in Seattle, Tikvah Chadasha. The report said women members of the Seattle congregation "are also becoming involved in a regional blood drive."

A member of Beth Simchat Torah reported that "our synagogue has been noticeably affected by the ravage of this dreadful epidemic," adding that "prayers for the sick, during our Friday night services, keep us all aware of the harsh reality."

Such Jews have special problems, in addition to those of heterosexual victims. The report declared that "not all AIDS patients can comfortably share their illness with friends or family. The prejudice that is so often directed towards AIDS patients, and the conflict when families may not previously know of a patient's homosexuality heap an additional burden onto the shoulders of the ill."

This reaction moved Lloyd Moss, a member of Beth Chayim Chadashim and chairperson of the Spiritual/Religious Advisory Committee for an AIDS project in Los Angeles, and fellow members to organize a conference, held last March, "to develop holistic, faithful responses to persons with AIDS, their families, friends and congregations."

The advisory committee is made up of 28 clergypersons "from most major denominations," including Rabbi Janet Marder, spiritual leader of Beth Chayim Chadashim. The report said the committee "strives to understand and develop ways to address the spiritual needs of AIDS patients, friends and families." Delegates to the March conference examined such issues as God and disease, homosexuality from theological perspectives, and approaches to congregational outreach and support for Jews afflicted by AIDS.

Asserting that Jews have always come together in adversity, a member of Beth Simchat Torah reported that gays and lesbians in New York are volunteering at a Gay Men's Health Crisis office, providing counseling, legal help, recreational leadership "and assisting patients with household chores like shopping and cleaning."

"Doctors in the congregation are searching for treatment, social workers are handling the psychological trauma to patients, lovers and families," the report said.

Moss declared that "the Jewish community should pressure those facilities which are refusing to accept AIDS patients — some nursing homes and hospitals, for example."

National JIAS Conference Montreal June 2

This National Annual meeting followed by the sixty-fourth annual regional meeting held jointly on Sunday, June 2 was a real honour and privilege to attend. The guest speaker was Claude Lanthier M.P., representing Jack Murta, Minister of Multiculturalism. Mr. Lanthier's warmth affected everyone as he thanked the Jewish community for building the library in LaSalle, Quebec where he grew up and which he represents as the Member of Parliament. The emotional involvement in settling immigrants was very much in evidence in Catherine Schiff's address as outgoing President of JIAS Montreal as she recounted her feeling of frustration and despair at Mirabel Airport one evening upon discovering that a newly arrived Ethiopian family had been issued a two week visitor's visa! During the meeting, representatives from the Russian, Iranian and, most touching of all, the Ethiopian communities each addressed the audience, (in English!) Last but by no means least was the obvious enthusiasm and joie de vivre of the Citizenship Judge's ceremony at the end of the day at which about thirty people from Morocco, Iran and Eastern Europe were sworn in as new Canadians. The judge even had the rest of us pledge allegiance to Canada all over again, ending her ceremony by saying Shalom! Shalom! Shalom!

Daniel Morris, Q.C., National President of JIAS, informed the audience that in 1984 there were 356 inquiries from 25 countries directed to JIAS; that 650 documents were prepared by JIAS; that 69 families or 162 individuals were resettled in Canada through JIAS. There are now 48 Ethiopian Jews in Canada — over 30 of them in Montreal and I think most of them were at this annual meeting.

Local News

I have had the opportunity to speak personally with Fania Jivotovsky who runs the Russian-Jewish Association in Montreal and she would be very happy to put anyone who wishes on her mailing list so that families here can take part in economical travel tours or obtain tickets to see any celebrities who will be coming from the USSR to perform in Montreal. If you do not receive a phone call from one of the JIAS committee members about being on the mailing list please give me a call at 238-6351 to ensure you do not miss any upcoming events.

The Mama Loshen Chevra-Yiddish Culture Group has asked me to extend an invitation to you to join them. They know many people from Russia, Hungary etc. are familiar with the Yiddish language. They are forming an executive and need you on their programme and social committees. Fluency in Yiddish is not necessary; just an interest in the Yiddish language and culture. Please call the coordinator Lucy Jason at 224-7074 for more information.

A Note From Kosher Meals on Wheels

1985-86 Board of Adath Shalom Congregation

Sense of chavurah keeps young Conservative congregation strong

Adath Shalom, Ottawa's egalitarian Conservative shul, has elected its new board of trustees, headed by President Ruth Kahane.

The new slate of officers is as follows: Past President — Steve Shugar; President — Ruth Kahane; First Vice-President — Harvey Goldberg; Second Vice-President — Anna Bilsky; Recording Secretary — Fenja Brod; Corresponding Secretary — Helen Vail; Treasurer — Morris Browns; Financial Secretary — Lori Jury; Trustees — Irwin Brod, Leslie Bricker, Joel Yan, Leah Schnitzer, Marvin Silver, Barbara Okun.

A special "Kovod Shabbat" to honor the outgoing and incoming boards will be held on July 6.

"We are entering our eighth year with an enthusiastic group leading our shul community and are aiming to make our Shabbat and holiday services an increasingly meaningful part of the lives of our members and their children," says Kahane.

"The greatest asset in our shul is a sense of 'chavurah.' We are aiming to build on this by strengthening how we function together and by reaching out to the Ottawa Jewish Community."

Adath Shalom offers weekly Shabbat morning services in the Conservative Jewish style which stress equal participation by men and women in all aspects of prayer. The services are member-led. During the High Holidays a Jewish Theological Seminary rabbinical student from New York leads the services.

Throughout the school year, Adath Shalom holds its Shabbat services in Greenbank Public School library. High Holiday services are held at Riviera Gate Apartments

Meeting Room at Baseline and Greenbank.

During the summer, services will be held at the homes of members as follows: July: The Brod's, 28 Benson, Parkwood Hills, Nepean; August: (First 3 weeks): The Schnitzers, 241

Sherwood Dr., Ottawa; August (Last 2 weeks): The Gilberts, 27 Bainbridge, Craig Henry.

Anyone interested in more information about Adath Shalom Congregation, can call Ruth Kahane (825-5219) or Joel Yan (224-4560).

Update

Beta Israel Who Remain in Ethiopia

By Lawrence Finsten

After the airlifts, after the headlines, after the fundraising for absorption in Israel, there are still 8,000 Jews left trapped inside Ethiopia.

The Operation Moses airlift of November and December 1984 took nearly 7,000 Ethiopian Jews out of Sudan to Israel. The American airlift of March 1985 gathered up the remaining 873 Ethiopian Jews who could be found in Sudan.

The fact is 36% of the world's Beta Israel community still remains in Ethiopia awaiting rescue. While 15,000 Beta Israel are safely in Israel, some 8,000, mostly women, elderly, children and the infirm are still trapped in Gondar province in Ethiopia. Their age, health and the immigration policies of a Marxist regime prevent their joining with their families now in Israel.

In the joy of the "lost tribe returning home" the impression may have been given that all the Ethiopian Jews had been brought to Israel. For the past four years Ethiopian Jews have been divided into two groups: those who remained in Ethiopia and those who fled to Sudan. It was those who were in Sudan who were saved by the two airlifts.

Sudan borders onto Ethiopia's Gondar province where nearly all the Jewish community lives. It has long been an exit route, not only for Jews but for more than 400,000 Ethiopians fleeing the drought and civil war in their country. All these people walk from their villages. The walk from Gondar can take from three days to three weeks. Water and food are scarce along the way, the refugees are often attacked by roving bands of bandits.

Once in Sudan, refugee camps are over-crowded. There are frequent cyclical shortages of tents, blankets, food, water and medicine despite extensive international relief efforts. Sudan is a Moslem country and as Jews the Beta Israel suffered from acts of discrimination. This was recognized by the United Nations High Commissioner For Refugees who had most of the Jews transferred into one camp which was then given additional military protection. By June of 1984 an estimated 12,000 Ethiopian Jews had made their way to Sudan. On November 23, 1984 Operation Moses began.

Before the airlift was halted on January 6, 1985 more than 7,000 Ethiopian Jewish refugees were taken from Sudan. Four thousand were said to remain behind in the camps. Although Operation Moses could not be restarted, strenuous lobbying in the USA resulted in an unanimous request from the Senate asking the President to do everything in his power to obtain the release of the remaining Jews in camps in Sudan. By March 24, 1985 the United States brought the remaining Jews from the Sudanese camps, who could be found, to Israel.

Only 873 could be located. Some had returned to Ethiopia, many had died.

While the media reported on the "return from exile" and details of the two airlifts, only a few stories mentioned that some 7,000 to 10,000 Jews still remain in Ethiopia.

The Jewish community left behind is a community out of kilter. Only children, their mothers, the elderly, the ill and the lame stayed behind. The able-bodied have fled. Some Kohens (priests) remain to try and keep the community intact. It is a community that has lost the critical mass necessary to survive as a distinct and separate ethnic group. Those that are left are the Beta Israel who could not walk to Sudan and now will not be able to. Another means of exit must be found for them. There is no future for them in Ethiopia and their desire is to join with what remains of their families now in Israel.

Lawrence Finsten is Chairman of the Ottawa Chapter for Ethiopian Jews.

I am already helping a Jewish Girl who is living in Ottawa on welfare. I do not have the means to take care of a second Jewish girl who is in the same situation. If there is anyone in Ottawa able and willing to help will you please contact me through this Bulletin.

Muriel Levine is '85 JNF Dinner honoree

Harry Goldstein, Chairman, Ottawa Jewish National Fund is pleased to announce that Muriel Levine has been selected as honoree for the 1985 Ottawa Negev Dinner.

Mrs. Levine, a well known and respected member of the Ottawa Jewish Community, has always been concerned with the strengthening of community institutions both in Israel and Ottawa. Actively involved in JNF, ORT, State of Israel Bonds and Beth Shalom Sisterhood, she has left her mark on all the organizations to which she has devoted her energies. It is because Muriel Levine has given of herself with such dedication that Jewish National Fund has chosen her to be honoree for this year's Negev Dinner.

The Ottawa Negev Dinner is scheduled to take place on Wednesday, October 16 at the Jewish Community Centre. The proceeds raised from the dinner will be directed to the Gail Canada project, which when complete, will enable thousands of Israelis to inhabit the settlements being built in the area.

By participating in the 1985 Negev Dinner, the Ottawa Jewish Community can show its pride and respect for one of its well known and devoted members while supporting the ongoing work of land redemption and reclamation in Israel by the Jewish National Fund.

For further information about the upcoming dinner, contact the Jewish National Fund office at 230-9047.
